REVA on the Move in Puerto Rico

REVA, Inc., the largest aero-medical services provider in the Americas and a major provider of air-ambulance services throughout the Caribbean for more than 20 years, last week consolidated its San Juan, Puerto Rico base at PAZOS FBO Services, the leading private-aviation terminal at Luis Muñoz Marín International Airport in San Juan.

REVA is pleased now to have the entire REVA San Juan Administrative staff, Operations, Medical, Maintenance, Inside & Outside Sales under the same roof, in the REVA hangar with our fleet of three medically-equipped aircraft which will increase operational efficiency and help expedite meeting client and patient air-ambulance transport needs.

The Puerto Rico base houses a neonatal specialty team, and new neonatal equipment (incubator and critical-care transport ventilators), enriching the patient experience. Two Cessna Citation jets provide some of the fastest service between islands and can affect wing-to-wing transfers to REVA's Learjet 35s in Fort Lauderdale when further transport of the patient is needed. REVA reaches smaller islands and shorter runways with its Cessna 402B, a dual-prop plane.

Carmen Mojica, Caribbean Account Executive, said: “This is exciting for all of us at the REVA Puerto Rico base. We look forward to seeing our entire team in full gear, to increasing our ability to meet and greet patients and family members before flight, and to continue to provide our excellent aero-medical service.”

“We also are fortunate to be next door to the most modern FBO facility in the entire Caribbean region, PAZOS FBO Services, which will serve and fuel our aircraft and provide Customs and Border Patrol services. With this move, another REVA difference, this is first time an air-ambulance service provider has all their staff and equipment at one hangar in San Juan. We are proud of this accomplishment,” added Ms. Mojica. As pioneers in the Air Ambulance Industry and in the Caribbean region, REVA’s vast experience again puts us on the map for providing a complete service to all our clients and patients around the globe. REVA Puerto Rico, now a complete air-ambulance Puerto Rico Hub serving the entire Caribbean.
